Call For Strong Support

Truman To Speak On State Of Union In Congress Monday

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(AP)—President Truman is expected to sound a strong call for national support of his Foreign Policies in his State of the Union message of Congress Monday.

As a possible indication that the President is willing to meet his Congressional critics part way in seeking unity, Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee forecast that Congress will be consulted before any binding commitments are made to send further American troops to Europe.

Connally's prediction was made to reporters as Senator Taft (R-Ohio) proposed in a separate interview that the lawmakers limit, in forthcoming appropriations bills, either the percentage or numbers of U. S. soldiers to be furnished for the north Atlantic defense forces.

Taft, who heads the Senate GOP policy committee, contended in the Senate yesterday that President Truman has no authority to assign more troops to Europe without approval by Congress.

Debates to be Given While the President said previously he did not need such approval, Connally said that as a practical matter he expects the European military aid program to be detailed to Congress as soon as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower completes a forthcoming survey.

After conferring with the President, Eisenhower left for Europe today to make a preliminary survey of his task as Allied Commander-in-Chief.

Connally told reporters he is certain Eisenhower's visit "will do much to encourage the free nations of western Europe toward rearming to build up their strength to resist invasion and aggression."

Then the Texas Senator gave what amounted to further assurance that Europe show its willingness to help arm itself.

"The General," Connally said, "will make clear to western Europe that it cannot expect the United States to be of aid unless the nations of western Europe exert themselves to the utmost and themselves do all that is possible toward rearming and equipping their forces and increasing their military power."

While he said he disagrees with Taft's thesis that the President doesn't have power to send additional troops to Europe, Connally said he expects that when Eisenhower returns the President will "fully inform Congress" of the program that lies ahead.

More Legislation Whether this will require additional legislation—or merely direct approval through the furnishing of money—Connally said will depend on the recommendations made by Eisenhower and other military leaders.

Taft, who signalled the opening of a vigorous foreign policy debate by his Senate speech of yesterday, told reporters he doesn't favor enacting any prohibition against sending troops abroad. He said in his speech that if the Europeans took the initiative to build up their defenses and a "reasonable chance of success" exists he would support the dispatch of "some limited number of American divisions" for the defense forces.

President Truman cleared the decks for his Monday message on the State of the Union by signing a $19,841,000,000 emergency military appropriations bill passed by the last Congress. Most of the money is for defense needs rising out of the Korean crisis.

In his messages to the new Congress, the President may lay down a budget of $75,000,000,000 or so for the year beginning July 1, with the major share going for military purposes. This is $10,000,000,000 more than Taft said was the maximum that could be met through new taxes.

The President will ask for more taxes—possibly a $10,000,000,000 addition to the present budget.

Symphony Rehearsal On Monday Night

Rehearsals for the third concert in the current season of the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra will be resumed Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at Smith-Cotton high school. The third concert will be presented the latter part of February in Smith-Cotton Auditorium.

Three Severely Injured In Wreck

William "Bill" Thurman, 18, driver, his brother Robert "Bob" Thurman, 16, and J. W. "Debbie" Youse, Jr., were severely injured in the above car when it crashed head-on into an embankment and a hedge tree at the Overmire corner on the Wingate road, five miles southwest of Sedalia. The accident occurred at about 11:30 o'clock Friday night. The car is owned by Otis Thurman, rural route 4, father of the Thurman boys, was demolished. All three boys were treated at the Bothwell hospital. Sergeant William Barton of the State Highway Patrol is in the background, checking the car. (Staff Photo)

Telecast And Radio To Carry Message

NEW YORK, Jan. 6—(AP)—President Truman's "State of the Union" message to Congress Monday can be heard and seen by many more thousands of television viewers this year.

The President's message will be carried on all major radio and television networks.

The radio networks—American, Columbia, National and Mutual—will air the speech over their entire nation-wide hookups from 12:00 to 12:30 p.m. (CST) Monday.

The telecast will begin 15 minutes earlier and is to be available to all the nation's estimated 105 television outlets.

Comparative figures were not available, but one TV network, the National Broadcasting Company, estimated three times as many NBC-TV outlets would receive the President's speech as did last year.

Father Of A Sedalian Is Found Killed

Wife Of A Tennant On His Farm Found Critically Wounded

RAVANNA, Mo., Jan. 6—(AP)—Vint McKay, 66, former presiding judge of the Mercer county court, was found shot to death tonight and the pretty wife of a former tenant farmer lay nearby dangerously wounded.

The body was found in a vacant tenant house on McKay's farm, there was a bullet hole in the top of his head. A .22 caliber rifle was in his left hand.

Woman Shot Five Times Mrs. Beulah McDonald, who with her husband, Virgil, had lived in the house until recently, was shot five times. She is in critical condition at a Princeton, Mo., hospital.

McDonald said he and his wife and two children, Colleen, 14, and Duane, 15, had lived in the house 12 years while he worked for McKay, a prominent stockman. He said he had become alarmed when his wife did not appear at their Ravanna home for dinner tonight. A search was started and he was present when McKay's body was found.

McKay Visited Home He said McKay had visited the McDonald home briefly this afternoon. Mrs. McDonald was not present at that time, he said.

Dr. C. P. Pickett, Coroner, said an inquest would be held tomorrow morning.

McKay is survived by his widow, Mattie McKay, and two married daughters, Mrs. Bonnie Draper, Sedalia, and Mrs. Melvin Hunter, Princeton.

Mrs. Bonnie Draper, identified as the daughter of Judge Vint McKay found shot to death in a tenant house on his farm near Ravanna, Mo., Saturday night, could not be found in Sedalia Saturday night. Her last address known to friends here was at a local hotel, but it was reported she had checked out of the hotel about two or three weeks ago.

A telephone number obtained from the State Highway Patrol was called and a man who identified himself as Mrs. Draper's husband and gave his name as L. H. Draper, but said he was living in Montserrat, and did not know where his wife was. He had been endeavoring to contact her for several hours.

The man said his wife had been missing for several days. He had not reported her disappearance to the Sedalia police. The police had no report of her being missing when checked late Saturday night.

Three Injured As Auto Hits Embankment

Youths Treated At Hospital After Car Is Wrecked

Three Pettis County youths were severely cut and bruised, about 11:30 o'clock Friday night when the car they were riding in crashed into an embankment at the Overmire turn on the Wingate road, about five miles southwest of Sedalia.

Driving the car was William "Bill" Thurman, 18, who was accompanied by his brother Robert "Bob" Thurman, 16, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Thurman of route 4, and J. W. "Debbie" Youse, Jr., 18, son of Mrs. Sallie Youse, of route 4.

According to Thurman, they were heading for their homes and he evidently dozed, and did not realize he was near the corner until too late. The car was moving west on the blacktop road and at the corner the gravel road begins. The automobile continued straight west dropped into a small drain ditch and nosed squarely into the earth bank and against a hedge fence.

Thurman, Sergeant William Barton of the State Highway Patrol stated, had been driving about fifty miles an hour just before the accident. The car was a 1946 Chevrolet sedan and belonged to Thurman's father.

Were Accorred Aid Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter, Chicago, Ill., who are visiting with Mr. Hunter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hunter, about a quarter of a mile south of the accident, were returning to the Hunter farm after attending the theatre and came upon the accident. Mr. Hunter said the car was so far into the ditch and hedge that he didn't notice it until he started to turn and a reflection of the lights appeared on the machine.

Mr. Hunter got out and went over to the car and found the boys in it. He told them he would get help and went on to his father's home and called the Sedalia Police and an ambulance, the operator connected Hunter with the police and Gillespie's at the same time and he gave the alarm. The police then notified the State Highway Patrol by radio, and then called for the Chamberlin wrecker.

In the meantime, George Hunter a brother of Robert who went to the scene, returned to his home and obtained a tractor and went back and pulled the Chevrolet car back enough so the two boys, "Bill" Thurman and Youse, who were pinned in the front seat, could be freed. Bob Thurman who was in the back seat was able to get out a rear door and he stayed in the Hunter car until removed to the hospital.

A Yellow Cab driven by Irvin Thurman in the taxi cab to the Bothwell hospital. A few minutes later "Bill" Thurman and Youse were rushed to the hospital in the Gillespie ambulance. Youse was in shock and unconscious when removed from the car.

Dr. J. M. Rodeman and Dr. A. L. Walter attended the three boys. All of the boys suffered facial lacerations. Youse and "Bill" Thurman both had lacerations on their heads, while Youse had severe lacerations on his nose, besides suffering from shock.

Division On Policy Is Sharp

Most Expressing Views Lean To That Taken By Administration

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—The 82nd Congress is sharply divided over the future course of American foreign policy.

But of these members willing to give their views publicly, more lean toward Present administration policy than toward that advocated by former president Herbert Hoover.

In other words, there is more sentiment for the United States to help bolster the defense efforts of other non-Communist nations than for cutting off that kind of help until western Europe builds what Hoover called a "sure dam" of its own against Red aggression.

The balance of power is held by those unwilling to commit themselves on the issue and those who call for a middleground approach.

This is the picture that emerged today from a poll conducted by the Associated Press among members of both Houses.

The poll was started before Friday's speech in which Senator Taft (R-Ohio) challenged the authority of President Truman to end American troops overseas as part of the new western European defense force without getting the approval of Congress first.

The question asked was intended to present in abbreviated terms the choice between announced policies of the Truman administration and the line of action proposed by Hoover. It was assumed that members of Congress, who must deal daily with public problems, would consider the many side issues and assumptions each broad plan of action embraces.

Here is the question: "Do you favor: 'A. Continuing the administration policy of collective security by supplying military assistance to western Europe and other free nations opposing Communism, or 'B. adopting former President Herbert Hoover's proposal to concentrate U. S. forces in forging a western hemisphere Gibraltar with forward outposts on Britain, Japan, Formosa and the Philippines—until western Europe builds up sufficient forces to erect a sure dam against the Red flood?"

Here is a summary of the replies:

Home Damaged; Contents Burned

Fire believed to have been caused by sparks from a burning flue did more than $800 damages to a small five-room house at 501 East Twenty-eighth street, about 10:55 o'clock Saturday morning. Personal belongings of the William "Bill" Hunter family were all destroyed in the fire at an estimated loss of about $400.

The Hunter family consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and their two small children a boy six months old and a daughter 3 years old. The family is temporarily located at the home of Hunter's parents, L. B. Hunter, 1206 South Grand avenue. Hunter is employed at the Block Construction Co., at the M-K-T stockyards.

The house is owned by C. D. Weathers.

Britain Returns to Wartime Restrictions

LONDON, Jan. 6—(AP)—In a return to wartime restrictions, Britain tonight banned all advertisement and display lighting in a move to preserve her dwindling supply of precious coal.

This means that such centers as Piccadilly Circus, London's "Times Square," will be just yawning, dimly lit caverns.

There will be no more lighted movie and theater marquees and only dark shop windows until the Labor Government feels that the fuel shortage has been overcome.

Marriage License Issued

Marriage license were issued to William A. Henderson and Gloria Mae Buckner, both of Sedalia, Saturday.

Rev. David Bryan Impressed As He Writes on Air Liner

(Special to the Democrat-Capital) By Rev. David M. Bryan First Christian Church

I am writing aboard a giant TWA trans-Atlantic plane. In a short while we shall be landing at Lisbon, Portugal. Eighteen hours ago I was occupying my pulpit at the First Christian church in Sedalia. Last night I visited almost two hours with some friends in Chicago and I spent several hours taking care of some business in New York this morning. I am now somewhere between the Azores and Portugal.

It All Happened in a Week From the minute I began preparing for this trip I have been amazed by the speed and efficiency placed at modern man's convenience. I decided on this trip before departure date. In fact I had only seven days to get my birth certificate from another state, make applications for and receive my passport from Washington, D.C., and to get it back to the Spanish Consul in New York for my visa. When I arrived in New York this morning my passport and visa were waiting for me. Thanks to the assistance of Senator James Kem in Washington and TWA's expeditor in New York.

You Must See Miracles

Of course, I have known of the miracle of modern transportation but like any other miracle one is fully impressed only when it becomes an actual part of his experience.

I recall that in December of 1903 when Orville Wright completed the first successful flight of a heavier-than-air plane at Kitty Hawk, N.C., he sent his sister in Dayton, Ohio, a telegram reading: "Successful sustained flight of two minutes. Be home for Christmas." She gave the message to the local paper which ran an article under the caption: "Local bicycle manufacturer to be home for Christmas." How completely oblivious was he and his age to the importance of that message!

From Modern to Primitive

Scarcely more than two decades before that message was sent my grandfather made his last annual trip to Rolla which was the nearest flour mill and market. That 200 mile round trip from West Plains through the hills of Texas county was a two week ordeal by ox wagon. He lived to see the time when he could shop in Cairo, Egypt, with much less difficulty. Yet before I return home I shall have been transported by means even more primitive than the ox wagon.

As the time draws near I keep wondering how it will feel to find myself alone in a strange land among people I can't understand. I confess there is almost a little fear mingled with my excitement and curiosity. I shall soon know.

Reds Reach Outskirts Of Doomed Wonju In A Determined Drive

Million Young Men A Year To Armed Forces

Basic Training To All 18-Year Old Youths Proposed

By Edwin B. Haakinson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(AP)—Basic military training for all 18-year old youths and combat duty for many of them were advocated today by Senator Martin (R-Pa.), only retired major general in Congress.

"The 18-year old makes a grand combat soldier," Martin said, adding:

"There is no question that Congress must completely overhaul the present Selective Service Act quickly."

Leaders in both the Senate and House announced that public hearing would begin shortly on administration proposals for controls over manpower.

These include revisions of the draft act that would lower the induction age from 18 to 16, extend required services from 21 months to 27 or possible 30 months, and cut down on deferments and exemptions.

After a talk today with President Truman at the White House along with other congressional leaders, Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) said the Senate armed services preparedness subcommittee would begin manpower hearings on Wednesday.

To Present Needs

"Secretary of Defense Marshall will present the administration's recommendations," Johnson, chairman of the Senate group, said. He quoted President Truman as saying Marshall will speak for all agencies of the government involved in the manpower question.

The draft act expires July 9 and under it the Defense department already has called for induction of 240,000 young men in the 19 through 26 age bracket for the January-March quarter of this year.

Such a rate, if continued, would draft 960,000 youths—or just short of 1,000,000—into the armed services this year.

Officials say that more than 1,000,000 young men must enter the armed services each year to attain the minimum goal of 3,500,000 for the Army, Navy and Air Forces set by President Truman.

Unless some of those in the 19-26 age bracket now deferred are made eligible it apparently "will be necessary to take a large number of the 18 year olds to increase the flow of inductees sufficiently."

Junior C. of C. Week Jan. 14-21

National Junior Chamber of Commerce Week will be observed January 14-21 in commemoration of the founding of that organization in St. Louis on January 21, 1920.

The Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce which was organized last April 20, and which has contributed much in the way of civic work since that time, will have during that week a banquet for the purpose of presenting the Distinguished Service Award to the outstanding young man of the year 1950 in Sedalia.

The young man, who is between the ages of 21-35 years has been chosen from the nominations previously made, and his selection was made on his merits of achievements, leadership, service to the community, personal ability and character. The announcement of the winner will be made at the banquet.

Charge American Planes Crossed Into Manchuria

LONDON, Jan. 5—(AP)—The new China news agency charged today that 1,406 American planes had crossed from Korea into Manchuria since Aug. 27.

According to incomplete figures, the agency said in a message monitored here by telradio, 16 persons were killed and 115 injured.

Defense Department Announces 361 Casualties

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—(AP)—The Defense Department today identified 361 additional Korean war casualties. The total included 38 killed or died of wounds, 179 wounded, 56 missing in action, 38 injured with one death from accidental injuries.

Denies Murder Of College Co-Ed

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Jan. 6—(AP)—A 22-year-old Vicksburg farm youth held here admitted tonight, then repudiated, the rape of Carolyn Drown, slain Western College co-ed.

State Police Commissioner Donald Leonard said Valorous Matthias admitted he and a companion, Ray Olsen, 22, also of Vicksburg, raped the girl. Leonard said Matthias named Olsen as the slayer.

Olsen, arrested by state police in Detroit a few hours after he was sworn into the Marine Corps, denied the slaying.

Leonard said Matthias broke down after lengthy questioning and admitted complicity in the rape-strangling.

But Kalamazoo police said Matthias later denied any knowledge of the case and claimed he was not present when the girl was slain.

State police disclosed for the first time tonight that medical examination disclosed that the girl had been raped twice. Her body was found in a cornfield near Kalamazoo, Dec. 3, a week after she was slain. Melting snowdrifts disclosed the body.

Seek W. Cook Ex-Convict In Family Murder

Another Man Is Killed And Deputy Sheriff Kidnapped

BLYTHER, Calif., Jan. 6—(AP)—A desperate suspect of killing an Illinois family of five was hunted tonight after the slaying of a Seattle man on the California desert.

Sheriff Robert Ware of Imperial county, reported that the body of Robert H. Dewey, 32, was found in a Riverside county sheriff's auto. This car, Riverside Deputy Homer Waldrup said, had been commandeered from him only a few hours earlier by W. E. Cook, 24-year-old Missouri ex-convict.

Deputy Recognized Cook

The FBI immediately stepped in to head the big manhunt which spread to Arizona after a blue Buick answering the description of Dewey's car was reported crossing the state line this afternoon.

Waldrup said he was accosted near Blythe at 10:15 a. m. by Cook, whom he recognized as a former restaurant dishwasher here, and at gun-point was forced to hand over his .38 automatic. Waldrup said Cook forced him to drive across the county line to a point in the desert, 40 miles south of Blythe. There he was trusted by Cook, who got back into the officer's auto and drove south.

Not long afterward Dewey, driving a blue Buick, was shot and killed and his body placed in the Riverside sheriff's car. This occurred at Ogilby in Imperial county, 17 miles west of Yuma, Ariz.

"There's no question about Cook's identity," Waldrup said. "I used to eat in a restaurant where he worked. We thought he was in Florida."

Cook Widely Hunted

Cook has been hunted by authorities in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas since the disappearance of Carl Mosser, 33; his wife, Thelma, 29, and their three children, Donald Dean, 7; Cary Carl, 5, and Pamela Sue, 3.

Imperial county Sheriff Bob Ware threw up cordons to check all roads. The immigration service's border patrol and the California highway patrol also were aiding in the man-hunt, with the FBI assuming leadership.

Imperial county is in the southeast corner of California and it was believed likely that the desperado might try to cross the border into Mexico.

Sheriff Ware, with headquarters at El Centro, put out an all points bulletin for Cook and Dewey's car, described as a 1947 two-door buick sedan.

Dewey was reported vacationing here on the desert and fishing in the nearby Colorado river. He

Duel With Allies There-Force The Abandonment Of Suwon Airbase

By Robert Eunson

TOYKO, Sunday, Jan. 7

—(AP)—The Allies fell back all along the Korean front Saturday before a relentless Red offensive that reached 60 miles south of the 38th parallel in one sector and was at the outskirts of doomed Wonju.

In the west, the Chinese and North Korean Communist drive forced abandonment of the big allied airbase of Suwon, 17 miles south of Seoul, although action on that front was more desultory.

The Communist force of 210,000 smashing at Wonju on the east-central front was trying desperately to flank the Korean west coast.

Red and allied artillery duelled over Wonju, a key road and rail point, its entire civilian population had fled.

A Red probing unit of about 4,000 men was reported by the U. S. Eighth Army to be 15 miles southeast of Wonju, heading for Chechon. Chechon is another key point on the main rail line from Seoul to Taegu.

Hal Boyle Reports from Korea

By Hal Boyle

TAEGU, Korea — (P) — Shinn Chung Sook is one of the prettiest girls in all Korea.

I will never forget the hour I held her in my arms as we flew together out of Seoul, ahead of massing Chinese Reds. But I don't suppose she will remember it much. She is used to adventure, and quite blasé about them.

We boarded a fifth air force plane at a field near the almost empty capital. The plane was loaded with soldiers. They didn't notice Shinn Chung Sook at first because I had wrapped a blanket around her to shield her from the cold.

But after the takeoff one soldier saw her feet sticking out beneath the blanket. He nudged the soldier next to him and said:

"Look, a girl."

Then Shinn Chung Sook stuck her head out of the blanket and looked around in wonderment. The whole line of soldiers opposite us stared at her black bobbed hair and rosy cheeks.

The first soldier came over and asked, "What's her name?"

"Snooky," I said.

"How old is she?"

"Three."

Gee, buddy," he said sympathetically, "they kept you over here a long time?"

I explained Snooky wasn't mine. Then I had to tell all the soldiers her life story.

She is the niece of Bill Shinn, a Korean reporter for the Associated Press. When she was little more than a year old she was stolen by a strange woman who had asked overnight shelter in the Shinn home.

It wasn't until nine months later that a policeman found her living with a Chinese family.

Convoy Held Up

A few days before Christmas little Snooky disappeared again. She apparently just wandered off. But it was a time when eight members of the Shinn family were about to flee south in a road convoy.

The convoy was held up a day while a frantic search was made for Snooky. Then the sorrowing family had to take off without her.

The next day Snooky was found. She had trudged five miles from her home in wintry weather, in her tiny, thin rubber shoes, and was blithely sharing a rice bowl with a Korean family that had taken her in.

American newsmen immediately adopted her, with Associated Press Correspondent Bill (William J.) Waugh as official godfather. He gave me the assignment of escorting her to safety.

The listening soldiers agreed that Snooky had had quite a career, but some pretended to disbelieve part of my story. They would come over and say, "She's got your nose, all right, but those must be her mother's eyes." Or, "She certainly does have more hair than her father."

Holding a squirming, chubby girl of three is like trying to pacify a half-grown octopus. But I was afraid to put her down. Finally, when my arms were about to fall off with weariness, Cpl. Ralph Cornell, of Auburn, N. Y., said:

"Let me hold her. I got a four-year-old boy myself."

Later I found a formula to silence her—each time she squirmed I stoked her with a candy mint.

As the plane began to descend a certain blankness came over Snooky's face, and I had a moment of panic.

"She's air sick. What will I do now?" I asked Cornell.

He looked at me pityingly: "Don't do anything. She's just getting sleepy."

All the soldiers came by to say goodbye to Snooky, including Lt. Viv Davis, of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. But she just looked at them in drowsy languor.

She fell asleep before I could climb into an open weapons carrier. I could feel the warmth of her small, blanket-wrapped body whenever she stirred sleepily in my arms during the long, cold ride through the winter night. It was a wonderful feeling. Her father was waiting at the press billet when I arrived with this little refugee. He almost cried with joy when he took her. But I also had the feeling that if Snooky ever runs away again she will get a sore bottom when she returns.

Shinn bobbed his head in an oriental courtesy of gratitude. Snooky woke up, waved a hand that still clutched a fragment of candy, and promptly fell asleep again.

If we meet again Snooky won't even recall our journey, but I'll always remember the feel of her warm little body in my arms as we rode through the night to safety.

(For Hal Boyle)

SEOUL — (P) — Kim Soon Pie slipped on his tattered overcoat and stepped out of his little house here.

He wanted to walk alone through the streets and think.

It had fallen upon him as head of his house to make a decision.

People in the street were hurrying; fleeing the city. They had made their decisions.

His thoughts were interrupted by someone who stopped to talk.

"I am standing here trying to make up my mind," he said.

"I have a family of six—myself, my wife, our son, his wife and their two children. The wife of my son has a child inside her and it will be born soon."

"I see these people here in the street. They leave. They can go. I don't know what I can do."

"I am an old man. My wife is old. If we try to leave we will die together along the road, for it is cold and the trip is long. My son cannot leave for his wife cannot have her child by the side of the road. The children would suffer."

"But if we stay our home will be destroyed and we will be at the mercy of the Communists. We know by experience what they are like."

He did not know it but Red Chinese troops were only a few miles north. But Kim did know that the time was near. He had heard reports and he had seen neighbor after neighbor board up their homes and take to the roads.

As he stood there the dull thud of artillery could be heard in the distance. American warplanes sped overhead. Army vehicles rumbled through the streets.

There was evidence enough the crisis was near.

Through an interpreter the aged man told a war correspondent of the weight his problem was bearing on his mind:

"I have come out of the house to think and to see. I have been pondering what to do."

Tears welled up in his eyes. It was a strange sight to see one of these war weary Orientals show his feelings.

Sergeant First Class J. W. Walz, who was awarded the Purple Heart medal for the wounds received as a result of enemy action in Korea on September 16, 1950. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Walz of Clifton City and a brother of Mrs. John Taylor, 1810 South Quincy avenue and Miss Earlene Walz of Sedalia.

Two sisters bent with age huddled before a tiny charcoal stove in their house, not far from Kim's.

Both were bare-headed and in their stocking feet.

At the door the daughter of one of them talked to two strangers.

"Twenty of us lived in this house at one time, but now only us remain," the woman said pointing to the two old women and her children—a daughter 17 and a son 10.

"The others have gone, and some of us must leave soon."

She said her mother was 77 and her aunt was 85.

"When the others left they said they would send us food. But we know they are far away by now and we don't expect we will hear from them again."

"I cannot decide whether to leave my mother and aunt here or try to take them with us. They would surely die either way," she said.

Her face displayed no emotion. Her voice was matter of fact.

Hearing the conversation at the door, the elder of the two old women lifted herself from the floor and hobbled to the door.

"We are not afraid to stay," she said in a loud shrill voice. The interpreter tried to calm her.

"I am an old woman," she fairly screamed, "but we are not afraid to stay." She looked kindly at her niece, a widow.

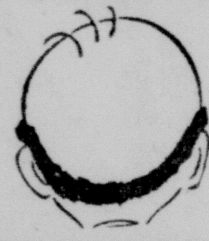

She looked up. "I have many thanks for the U.N. forces. They are not Korean but they come to Korea from very far country and fight for Korean people, for happiness and for peace," she said.

The interpreter interrupted her and explained, "She says that the U.N. soldiers will not let the Chinese come. She says they will protect her and she wants to stay in her home."

- Shallow Seams...In ready-to-wear garments, watch out for shallow seams in velvets or in loosely woven fabrics that fray easily. The splitting of such seams can occur during wear or dry cleaning. Needless to say, it is annoying to find that a seam has frayed to the stitching and then pulled apart, but this can be avoided by more critical purchase!

To Attend Furniture Markets

The vital need for greater comfort and relaxation in the home during this grave period of world crisis and social unrest will be reflected in the new furniture lines to be shown at markets this month throughout the country.

Philip McLaughlin of McLaughlin Bros. Furniture Co., who is preparing to leave for the annual Winter Home Furnishings Markets which open January 9, indicated that the home furnishings industry is going all out in economy and fashion-wise presentations to the public.

"You will find that today's homemakers are receiving much more for their money," Mr. McLaughlin said. "Home goods values of 1951 are still the best of recent years despite price stiffening due to increased material and production costs. Furniture may be bought on convenient credit terms—$15 down on a $100 item, with as long as fifteen months to pay the balance.

Twice a year, through market exhibits, the home furnishings industry introduces its creations to retailers. Chicago and Grand Rapids lead off the series of home furnishings markets to be followed by others at permanent wholesale exposition centers including New York, High Point (N. C.), Boston, Seattle, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

At Chicago over 2,000 manufacturers will show their new offerings in furniture, appliances, radio, television, and floor coverings designed for the style and utility required by the pattern of today's living, Mr. McLaughlin indicated.

"The market will offer conclusive proof that the American worker can still furnish his home in comfort and taste at a price he can afford to pay. Long range industry plans include designs that eliminate extensive use of critical materials, a greater simplicity of design, and more utility per item," Mr. McLaughlin said.

Colors continue toward softer hues, with neutrals appearing in greater prominence. Frequent performers are green, palomino beige, gray, cocoa brown and golden-rod yellow. In fabrics, the spotlight is on tweeds and textured backgrounds to co-ordinate with casual living. Textured plaids, horizontal stripes and other more elaborate yarn styles will be seen along with the pile texture. Abstract motifs are again the vogue, although the traditional leaf and flower pattern is predominant. In the new fabrics are a metallic gold print on a silk antique gauze and a velvet fabric with a nylon pile. Simulated hand loomed, rough textured fabrics will be seen more and more in fabrics and upholstery. Color accents, of red-orange, leaf yellow-green, and bright gold are replacing the long-popular chartreuse.

Sweet Springs O E S Installs

In a setting of evergreen, Christmas decorations and soft glow of lights, the 1951 officers of Sweet Springs Chapter No. 90 O. E. S. were installed. Mrs. Elizabeth Haggard, retiring worthy matron, welcomed the guests and members. Raphael Hall, Philip Payne and Richard Plummer, in cub uniforms, presented the flag of the United States and Phil Heisner gave an appropriate tribute after which he asked all join in the allegiance of the flag.

A tribute in song was given to Mr. and Mrs. Haggard by their daughter Marilyn in appreciation of the years service to the chapter.

Mrs. Haggard escorted the installing officers into the chapter room where they were introduced. They were: Mrs. Jessie Lucas of Kansas City, a former past matron of Sweet Springs; installing matron, Harry Crain; worthy patron of Higginsville chapter, installing matron, Harry Crain; worthy patron of Higginsville chapter, installing patron, Mrs. Nannie Heisner, installing marshal; Mrs. Mary Scott, installing chaplain, and Mrs. Wilma Payne, installing organist. Mrs. Iva Hale entered with the large white Bible as five members carrying candles lighted the way and repeated the Lord's prayer as the open Bible was reverently placed on the altar.

The officers were presents at the altar as the prayer was given the installing chaplain. After Mary Crain was installed as worthy matron, Mrs. Haggard sang a song. Emory Crain, a nephew, then presented a corsage to her as a gift from her chapter and her father, Charles Crain escorted her to the East. Taylor Hook, installed as worthy patron, received a boutonniere from Vernie Haggard and was escorted to the East by his wife. Other officers installed were: Grace Whitsitt, associate matron; Nannie Heisner, secretary; Elizabeth Dierking, treasurer; Nancy Hook, conductress; Pearl Bray, associate conductress; Elizabeth Haggard, marshal; Mary Scott, chaplain; Wilma Payne, organist; Iva Hale, Adam; Mary Wall, Ruth; Mary E. Linder, Esther; Verna Tolson, Martha; Laura Turner, Electa;

For example, the other day we had a customer in the store who needed enough material to make about two hundred costumes for a group of girls. We did not have enough material on hand of the type she wanted to take care of her needs.
We called our New York buying office for this customer and they purchased the material for us and delivery was made in Sedalia three days later.

Rail Conflict Persists

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON—The supposed "settlement" of the dispute that led to the railroad strike, last month is endangered by friction between the railroad brotherhood chiefs and John Steelman, White House assistant.

The problem of avoiding a strike in the long, drawn-out railroad dispute is one of the toughest in the nation. And things have become so tense between Steelman and the brotherhoods that they have sent word to Secretary Marshall recommending that Steelman be replaced with a topflight mediator, such as Cyrus Ching, or Anna Rosenberg.

What annoyed them was first of all a sentence they discovered in a strike-agreement memorandum which they negotiated after a grueling, all-night session at the White House last month. The line read:

"If the parties cannot agree on details of agreement or rules, they shall be submitted to John R. Steelman for a final decision."

This, brotherhood chieftains interpreted, meant that Steelman would have a 3-year job as a rail negotiator whether he remained on the White House staff or not.

Another thing that annoyed them was Steelman's tactics in proposing that the two sides write down the points of near-agreement and take them home as a basis for final settlement. This so-called "memorandum of agreement" was typed by White House secretaries. Then, brotherhood chieftains said, they were flabbergasted to find that Steelman had called in the press, radio and newsmen. To them he announced:

"I have reached a settlement. There will be no strike."

Gulps came from the labor side of the table, but no open protests. It was difficult to protest with the newsmen clicking.

However, this rancor has continued to boil below the surface and it looks as if the whole rail dispute will have to be negotiated over again.

—O—

At last week's cabinet session, two members from New England, J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, attorney general, and Maurice Tobin of Massachusetts, secretary of labor, blew off some steam. They were indignant because New England has been left out in the cold when it comes to the location of new war plants—especially steel and aluminum plants.

Simultaneous with the cabinet debate, Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut was arguing with Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources board, in behalf of the New England Council, the business group which has organized the New England Steel Development company. McMahon called for diversifying the steel industry instead of concentrating it in the hands of a few big companies.

"You're just going to have a white elephant on your hands," Symington replied. New England, he said, would find itself with an empty steel mill after the war emergency was over.

"Let us worry about that," countered McMahon.

The Connecticut senator kept arguing until Symington finally called William Harrison, chairman of the National Production authority, and told him to give the New England Council a certificate as soon as possible.

Free Men Must Forget Dream Of Neutrality in Russian War

By Bruce Blossat

In the councils of the United Nations, in the newspapers and over the radio stations of free peoples in many Asiatic and European lands, on the streets and in the shops and factories of their cities, you hear the refrain:

"If the United States and Russia want war, let them fight. But let us stay out of it. Let us be neutral."

No one can attempt to say accurately how widespread these sentiments are. Happily they are not general. But they must be viewed with sadness by all who appreciate how vital it is that free men everywhere stand together to resist the evil course of totalitarian communism. We know these attitudes spring more from emotion than from reason. The emotion is fear, buttressed by a sense of frustration and defeat.

But in all attitudes rooted in emotion, men seek to find reasons to justify themselves. If these peoples are ever to muster fresh courage to see the reality of their present peril, they must be deprived of the comfort they are gaining from false reasoning about Soviet-American relations.

They profess to see this as a straight-out U. S.-Russian struggle. Actually it involves every corner of the globe. No patch of earth is likely to be unaffected by the final outcome.

The one great reason why the focus is on Russia and this country is that they represent the two poles of supreme strength in the world. We may thank Hitler for that. He so devastated Europe that the balancing power of once-great France and Britain was taken out of the world scales.

When the last battle was fought, only we and the Russians walked away from the field strong. What if the fates of war had decreed it should be BRITAIN and Russia? Can we doubt that all of Russia's venom and energy would today be pouring into a contest with the British?

The vacuum created by Hitler's destruction gave Russia its golden opportunity. It saw easy conquests looming up on every hand. Prostrate nations were ready to topple toward communism. Some did. Others, shored up by the Marshall Plan, narrowly missed.

From the moment Allied victory in World War II was assured, Russia knew this country would be the one real obstacle to its global ambitions. Russia—not the United States—made it a two-nation struggle.

The United States did not seek this fight. It did not seek leadership as a world power. Both these things were thrust upon us by the harsh realities of Europe's postwar ruin.

The Soviet Union directs its fire upon us because we are the only nation that needs to be defeated. How long would any other hold out against the Red tide if we were wiped from the scene?

Far from this being "our" war with Russia, it is every free man's war. If we should go down, they would all go down. The notion that free people may somehow remain neutral and free in a world swept by an all-devouring communism is a feverish fancy, a wild illusion born of nightmarish fear.

If troubled peoples in many places do not soon awake from this dream, they will be shaken out of it rudely by the pounding tread of the totalitarian's boot.

—O—

Sabotage Could Be Strong Allied Weapon in USSR War

It's taken for granted that in the event of war, Communists and Red sympathizers in Europe and America would commit countless damaging acts of sabotage against us.

We were fortunate in World War II that the vigilance of the FBI, combined with the Nazis' apparent inability to recruit saboteurs on a broad scale, eliminated this behind-the-front warfare. No one imagines we'd be so lucky again.

It goes without saying that we must prepare to combat sabotage as we never have before. The preparation isn't something that can be put off. Defense contracts are being let steadily. The men who work on them must be tightly screened, and every safeguard must be erected to keep the affected plants free of trouble.

Some responsible people are suggesting that we ought to go much further and get into the sabotage business ourselves. Those who urge it admit at the start that it's a sordid, dirty sort of game; but they believe that playing it would be of vital assistance to us in a conflict with the Soviet Union.

In the western European nations which might be overrun in a Russian drive to the sea, thousands and thousands of stout-hearted lovers of liberty would serve their cause at risk of their lives behind enemy lines.

Any build-up of European defenses might be viewed as incomplete if it did not make plans to utilize the disruptive force these people could bring to bear in a Europe under Russian heel.

The advocates of an Allied sabotage program argue, too, that there are many brave recruits for this dangerous duty in countries already behind the Iron Curtain. Freedom is not a dead issue to people in Hungary, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Bulgaria.

These people await the day when they shall be liberated. Though they dare not speak out, they are with us. Many would do anything asked of them to advance the rebirth of freedom in their lands. They need only to be told what sort of future would really be in store for them in a world rid of Russian domination. Men who have hope will die, if they must, trying to realize it.

There are probably even people in Russia itself who would be willing to join the army of saboteurs. The Ukrainians are notoriously a rebellious group, and others we hear little of might seize any fair chance to do their ruthless masters in. The problem of reaching these people and helping to organize and guide them is obviously more difficult than elsewhere.

Whether we should undertake to embark on an intensive sabotage program is a question for study in the highest levels of government. And it will no doubt be judged in the light of the fact that our prospective enemy, the Soviet Union, is sure to throw away the rule book and fight foul if it comes to a test.

THE STORY: Paul Twing, a former Navy officer, kidnapped the child of his dead brother from her unworthy mother. Although a nationwide search for Paul followed, there is public sympathy for him. Paul, in disguise, discloses his identity to May Jenkins, a waitress in a coal mining town. May says Paul might escape if the child, Judy, were used as a boy and if a woman accompanied them. May agrees to be the woman. Paul, reluctant at first, agrees to let May go with him. If Paul can reach New York, he can contact a friend, Martin Jahnke, captain of a merchant vessel, who will take them somewhere to begin a new life.

IT was three days before Paul, a and Judy Twing and May Jenkins started out for New York. May had insisted that Paul get some rest before they went. He had gone into Wheeling alone and had taken a room in a small hotel.

Judy had displayed little surprise at May's appearance. She accepted May as Uncle Paul's girl and Judy liked her Aunt May bought her presents, candy, and new boy's clothes. She laughed a lot and didn't sulk.

The whole kidnapping episode, which had delighted Judy from the start, became more fun than ever. Dressing up and making believe she was a boy was wonderful. Traveling, eating in restaurants, sleeping in the car, not having to have her hair tussed over, and hardly ever taking a bath—it was a little girl's dream of paradise.

Describing Judy as the son of an old friend who was very ill, May took her to share her room. John was the name Judy had adopted for herself, and she was accepted without question or suspicion.

May quit her job at the beer parlor and kept Judy with her constantly. She felt alive and vital for the first time in years. Judy had won her love instantly. May was charmed by the little girl's irrepressible laughter and her unspoiled affection.

May had taken the car and parked it in a private garage. She worried about it. Paul's picture had been published in the newspapers and, of course, people in and near Louisville took particular interest in the case. The man who had sold him the car might have recognized the picture and reported the sale.

As much as May had disliked her job at the beer parlor, she had acquired a degree of fondness for Pete, the owner. He had always been very decent to her. There were no hard feelings about her throwing up the job. She went to him and told the story of caring for the son of her sick friend. She added that she wanted to borrow his car so that she could take the boy to his grandmother in Nevada.

He agreed without hesitation. He knew that May was honest and he rarely used the car. It was an older car than Paul's and May was glad of that. If she couldn't get it back to him, she could always mail him the key to the garage. He could have Paul's car.

MAY did most of the driving on the trip to New York. The benefits of protective coloring afforded by having a woman along were enhanced by her being in the dominant position. She and Judy rode up front while Paul made himself inconspicuous on the back seat.

It was nearly 400 miles. They started early in the morning. It was Paul's idea that they should make it in one day. He wanted to avoid tourist camps and small town hotels.

While driving, May's eyes darted to the rear vision mirror from time to time. She found a glow of pleasure in discovering Paul inspecting her. He appeared to be not only refreshed but happy.

She knew that she looked nothing like the waitress he had found in a fourth rate beer parlor. She had bought some new clothes. Her hair had been waved and dressed professionally, but most of all the excitement of this adventure had given her a radiance.

At 7 o'clock that night they pulled into a roadside restaurant for supper. The Hudson River, with its several gateways to New York, was only 10 or 12 miles ahead. Paul bought a newspaper and while they ate he ran through it searching for news about the case.

A deluge of letters and editorials had followed the case and many echoed the broadcast to which they had listened in the beer parlor. The letters, for the most part, were sympathetic and championed Paul's courage even though he was a technical outlaw.

A large proportion of the editorials, however, were cautious at the idea of making Paul Twing a hero, gravely pointing out that private citizens should not take the law into their own hands whenever they felt that they had been the victims of injustice.

THE news Paul found in the evening papers was confined to the report that the authorities were busy tracking down more than 100 leads that had been supplied by private citizens in almost every state in the nation. Keeping his voice down so that it would not carry to other tables, Paul read the columns to May.

"Listen to this, May," he had found a small box item next to the feature article. "More than 10 'Justice for Twing' clubs have been organized. The first one was started in Paul Twing's home town of Louisville, Ky., and others have sprung up in New York, Boston, Chicago and several other cities. These organizations are raising funds for the defense of Paul Twing. Byron Swane, Victor Moss and a number of other prominent lawyers have made it known that they will undertake Twing's defense without charge if he will give himself up, or if he is apprehended."

"Will you give yourself up, Paul?" May asked.

Hymn of Month For January of Music Clubs

The National Federation of Music Clubs announces the hymn of the month for January as "God Moves in a Mysterious Way." The author of this hymn is William Cowper (1731-1800). That William Cowper had many personal experiences of "perplexing moves in a mysterious way" there can be no doubt, but there is doubt

• Side Glances

"Oh, George, we couldn't put our money in that car—the money we're going to set aside to put Willie through law school!"

Music Modes

In reality this is an obituary of a column. . . . For the past year Modes has ventilated music from every idealty. At times, we confess, the discussions have slipped into shades of ultra-modern fantasy. In fact, there are a few readers who doubt Modes' sensibility. Quid pro quo.

An art as impalpable as music is difficult to write about. It has been the express intention of this column to be constructive. . . . However, there have been moments of brutal criticism. . . . This criticism was, we believe, constructive in the sense that we were attempting to build a new fresh appreciation of all types of music. The lessons that have been filtered into these lines were of a progressive nature. To some, they may have seemed radical. . . . to others commonplace.

One thing is certain, a conscious endeavor has been made to create a better understanding of modern music and what modern music is doing and most important . . . what it will do in the future. Each era has had its "modern" musicians. They have all resorted to new means to create a music different from their elders. Composers have used many and strange systems

"French Tune." It came to England in 1621 in Ravenscroft's Whole Book of Psalms. The melody was in the tenor part. It has been frequently credited to Christopher Tye, 1553.

This hymn will be used in a January meeting of the Helen G. Stele Music Club, a member of the National Federation of Music clubs, as well as churches and organizations throughout Sedalia.

to produce a music that will satisfy the demands of the inner mind . . . the subconscious. What we look for in all arts, the heart and soul, is the decision within the composer.

If you have disagreed with Modes . . . bear this in mind . . . the conditions of the world are ever changing and there are no two of us who are identical. Hence, there shall always be something new to be said regarding each and all of the arts. Because of background and environment each of us will express something different.

Music is a vital part of our very lives. When peace in the world is finally achieved . . . the lines of Longfellow will be a reality . . .

Shall fold their tents like

Hospital Here Is Approved

Bothwell Gets Sanction From Surgeons' College

The John H. Bothwell Memorial hospital in Sedalia has again been approved by the American College of Surgeons, being one of 3,290 in the United States, Canada and a few other countries to receive such distinction. In 1940, approved hospitals by that body numbered 3,284. Eighty-nine other Missouri hospitals were approved.

The hospitals here listed as a general one has 100 beds and 22 bassinets. Its ownership is by the city, and its operation is through a board of trustees, Fred M. Lange is the president, J. B. Carlisle, M. D., chief of staff, and James Franks, superintendent.

Dr. Paul R. Hawley, director of the college, made the announcement.

The approved hospitals on the new list represent 82% of the hospitals of 25 beds and over which are under survey by the college. Approval is in two classifications—fully approved and provisionally approved—with 2,980 hospitals fully and 310 provisionally approved.

As recently announced by Dr. Arthur W. Allen of Boston, chairman of the board of regents, the American College of Surgeons is continuing and strengthening its program of Hospital Standardization which it has carried on for the past 35 years. Since the inauguration of the program in 1916, the college has expended more than $2,000,000 in the improvement of patient care in the hospitals of the United States and Canada.

A series of conferences is being held with the American Medical association, the American College of Physicians and the American Hospital association in the hope that a co-ordinated program may be developed. The regents, according to Dr. Allen, have every intention of continuing the Hospital Standardization program upon an expanded scale and even with deficit financing until a solution is found which is agreeable to the majority of the profession, and which is, above all, in the best interest of the public.

Required Standards

The standards for hospitals upon which approval is based include the following fundamental principles:

1. Modern physical plant, assuring the patient safety, comfort and efficient care.

2. Clearly defined organization, duties, responsibilities, and relations.

3. Carefully selected governing board with complete and supreme authority.

4. Competent chief executive officer or administrator, well trained in all phases of hospital administration, with authority and responsibility to interpret and carry out the policies of the hospital as authorized by the governing board.

5. Adequate and efficient personnel, properly organized and competently supervised.

6. Organized medical staff of ethical, competent physicians and surgeons.

7. Adequate diagnostic and therapeutic facilities under competent medical supervision.

8. Accurate complete medical records, readily accessible for research and follow-up.

9. Regular group conferences of the administrative staff and of the medical staff for reviewing activities and results so as to maintain a high plane of scientific efficiency.

10. A humanitarian spirit—the primary consideration being the best care of the patient.

Division On Policy Is Sharp

Hoover proposal—50 Republicans, 5 Democrats—Total 55.

Expressing a middleground view—30.

Unwilling to express a choice—52.

Not reached—159.

Thus the lawmakers, in general, followed party lines in their foreign policy split, although the number of Republicans appearing to favor the administration was greater than the number of Democrats willing to go along with the Hoover program.

Several members of each House declined to answer the question addressed to them on the ground that it was not phrased broadly enough.

Some members expressed varying views as to what Hoover actually proposed in his recent radio address from New York.

Many who replied to the poll question declined to express a clear choice but said they favor helping western Europe if the countries there show a determination to help themselves.

Those who gave such replies were listed as leaning toward the administration program because the North Atlantic Treaty, upon which current American foreign policy Europe is based, calls for such a determination.

Taft, chairman of the Senate's Republican policy committee, declined to answer the poll question since he was preparing the foreign affairs speech which he delivered in the Senate Friday.

In the speech he called the Atlantic Pact for mutual defense against Communist aggression "a great mistake" and said a military buildup such as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has been named to direct, would almost certainly lead to war.

Favor Continuing

On the Democratic side these 22 Senators came out squarely for continuing the administration's foreign policy: Connally of Texas, Douglas of Illinois, Ellender of Louisiana, Monroney and Kerr of Oklahoma, Hill and Sparkman of Alabama, Magnuson of Washington, Chapman of Kentucky, Hunt of Wyoming, McKellar and Ke-fauver of Tennessee, Murray of Montana, McMahon and Benton of Connecticut, Green of Rhode Island, Anderson of New Mexico, Kilgore and Neely of West Virginia, Lehman of New York, Eastland of Mississippi, Humphrey of Minnesota.

These 10 Democratic Senators went along generally with the administration proposals but expressed some reservations:

Stennis of Mississippi, Smathers of Florida, Holland of Florida, Chavez of New Mexico, Long of Louisiana, Robertson of Virginia, Pastore of Rhode Island, Hennings of Missouri, Frear of Delaware and Fulbright of Arkansas.

Fulbright said "If it comes to a choice between the two, I'd take 'A' (The administration program) but there are lots of angles to it. There must be some hope that such a policy can be pursued successfully."

Montana, Nixon of California, Brewster of Maine, Aiken of Vermont, Tobey and Bridges of New Hampshire, Ives of New York and Hendrickson of New Jersey.

"Apparently both are party right," McClellan said. "We should make ourselves strong and also help our allies."

The 13 Democratic Senators who declined to give their views were George and Russell of Georgia, Johnson of Colorado, Hoey and Smith of North Carolina, Maybank of South Carolina, McCarran of Nevada, McFarland and Hayden of Arizona, Gillette of Iowa, Johnson of Texas, O'Connor of Maryland and Clements of Kentucky.

Sixteen Republican Senators likewise declined to give an opinion: Cordon of Oregon, Millikin of Colorado, Duff of Pennsylvania, Williams of Delaware, Butler of Maryland, Knowland of California, Saltonstall and Lodge of Massachusetts, Smith of Maine, McCarthy of Wisconsin, Smith of New Jersey, Ferguson of Michigan, Mundt of South Dakota, Malone of Nevada, Bennett of Utah and Taft of Ohio.

Senators not reached were Byrd of Virginia and O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Democrats, and Vandenberg of Michigan and Cain of Washington, Republicans.

House Republicans who came out unqualifiedly for the administration program includes Rep. Eaton of New Jersey, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee during the GOP-controlled 80th Congress; New York Reps. Cope, Gamble, Javits, Kearney and Richman and Rep. Johnson of California.

Other House Republicans whose replies indicated a leaning toward the administration program included:

Belcher (Okla.): "I do not favor necessarily the continuation of the present administration policy. However x x x I believe that we should supply military assistance to western Europe, but we should insist upon countries of western Europe doing everything in their power to build up their own military defense."

House Democrats who voiced sympathy for the Hoover proposal included:

Other officers elected were: First vice president, Ernest Heller; second vice president, Sidney Swope; secretary, Edwin Kettleson; chaplain, A. E. Messenger, outer guard, William Matthews.

After the election of officers a film was shown by Curtis Schupbach entitled: "What Price Freedom."

The out-going president, William Matthews, was congratulated on his successful year of 1950 during which time there were 528 degrees taken by men in Sedalia and surrounding area.

At the close of the meeting refreshments of pie and coffee were served.

To assure any benefits of split-income provisions, husband and wife must include all their income, and BOTH MUST SIGN, even though only one has income.

By Richard A. Mullens
NEA Special Correspondent

Today let's take up the case of an imaginary taxpayer, Al Publique.

Al discovered when he read Article 1 that his marriage to Mary on Dec. 31, 1950, qualified him as a married man for tax purposes. He found out in Article 2 that he could claim his mother as a dependent. The third article told him that his total income of $3,666.74 shown on the Form W-2 received from his employer had to be reported. He had no travel expenses as defined in Article 4, and no other income in 1950.

His next problem is to decide what form to use in reporting his income to Uncle Sam.

Most people are eligible to use the simple tax return called "Form 1040A." It's the form shown with this article, printed on yellow paper.

It is the easiest return to use because you don't have to compute your tax. You just fill in the blanks, attach the original copies of all your Withholding Statements—Form W-2, and mail it to your collector. If you have a refund coming, he will send you a check. If you owe more tax, he will send you a bill.

You are eligible to use Form 1040A if you can answer "yes" to the three following questions:

1. Did your income consist entirely of wages, interest and dividends?

2. Is your total income (Item 6 of the form) less than $5,000?

3. Is your total income from wages on which tax has been withheld, interest and dividends (Item 5 of the form) $100 or less?

If husband and wife's combined incomes meet the above three tests, a joint return may be filed.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of 15 authoritative easy-to-follow article in NEA's 10th annual Income Tax Primer that gives the average taxpayer expert advice on handling every item of his return with the least effort, greatest accuracy—and minimum payment.

It's written by Richard A. Mullens, ranking Washington tax authority who's a graduate of the same training course given Federal agents who scan your own return. As in all other years, it has been prepared in consultation with Bureau of Internal Revenue experts.

Suppose you are eligible to file on Form 1040A. There are two advantages.

1. You do not have to compute your tax.

2. If you owe more than was withheld, the additional amount does not have to be paid until 30 days after you get a bill from the collector.

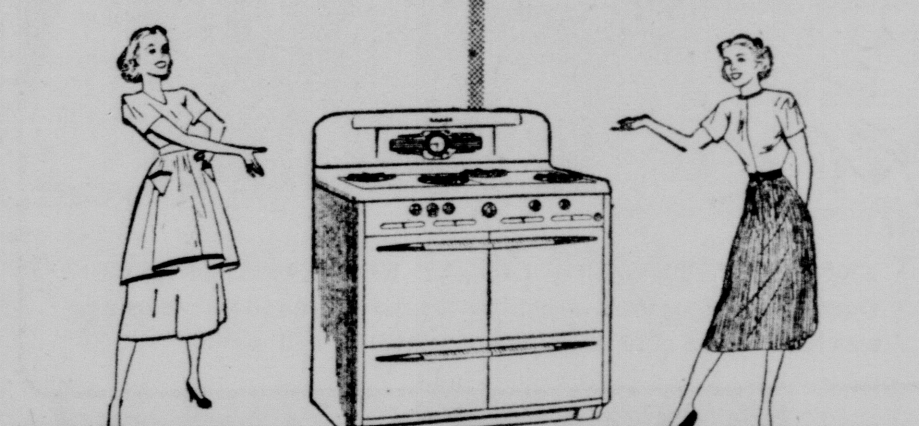

Here are the disadvantages of Form 1040A:

2. If you have travel expenses, as explained in the fourth article, for which you were not reimbursed by your employer, it will pay you to file on Form 1040 and deduct these expenses.

Al Publique's income met the tests shown above so he decided to use the simple Form 1040A. He and his wife have filed a joint return by printing both

Start Work of Remodeling

Mattingly Store Be Located In The Kahn Building

Mattingly Bros. Stores Company, opening a department store in Sedalia the early part of March, have commenced an extensive remodeling program in their building, corner of Second street and Ohio avenue, formerly occupied by the St. Louis Clothing Company.

R. M. Graham, store manager, is in Sedalia and has purchased a home here. He is formerly of Alamosa, Colo., and Columbia, Mo., and has had many years experience in department store business. He was associated with the Gordon stores, having headquarters in Denver.

Also supervising the remodeling and setting up of the new Sedalia store is A. B. Tarwater, general superintendent of the Mattingly organization, from the general office in Lexington.

The local store, to be known as Mattingly's, is the fourth department store of its type in the chain. There are also 30 variety stores in the organization, all in Missouri.

Mattingly Bros. Stores Company was started 37 years ago in Odessa, Mo., by Roy and Harry Mattingly. Three other Mattingly brothers later entered the organization, and by 1927 when the tenth store was opened, it was incorporated under its present name.

Officers of the company are Roy Mattingly, board chairman; Hugh Mattingly, president; A. B. Tarwater, vice-president and general superintendent; G. S. Cheney, secretary; and Emmitt G. Hesse, treasurer. General offices and warehouse are located at Lexington, also the home of one of the early variety stores in the chain.

"We're very pleased with the way our remodeling is starting to shape up," said Mr. Graham, "and we should be ready to open on or about March 1. Sedalia people have been very kind in many ways," added the manager, "and it's going to be a real pleasure to live here."

Jittery Employers, Uncertain Of Policy in the Pentagon, Make Civilian Job Status Ticklish For the Reservists

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—One of the most bitter by-products of the Korean war is the damage it has done to the jobs of hundreds of thousands of reservists and national guardsmen.

Most Pentagon officials put the blame on employers. Employers blame the Pentagon. Most of the men who are affected blame both.

About the only thing there is agreement on is that when this is all over, the present reserve structure of the services is going to have to be junked for something more modern and workable. Or there will have to be some kind of universal service or training.

A few typical examples tell the story best:

Case A joined the national guard before World War II, was called to active duty and served meritoriously. He rejoined the guard after the war. Just before Korea his firm promised him a promotion with a good increase in salary. On the basis of this he bought a new home with payments his promised raise could easily take care of.

However, when it looked as if he might be called to active duty after the Korean war started, the promotion never came through. Another man was given the job, the guard member is about to lose his new home and all he put in it and there isn't much chance of his being called to active duty.

Just before Korea, Case B quit his job to open a business of his own. He thought he had the finances all arranged through the local bank. But when the bank learned that he was in the reserves and might be called up, it refused to go through with the loan. Now he can't get his old job back, can't get finances to start his venture, can't get a new job. And he hasn't heard from the services about a call back to duty.

Case C concerns a young man who was just starting out in the fuel-oil business. He had signed up a lot of customers for the winter just as Korea started. His competitor whispered it around that this man was a reservist who would be called to active duty and that he would never be able to deliver his oil. As a result, all of his contracts were cancelled, he could find no new customers and he lost every cent he put into the venture.

Case D is a young fellow who was called out with his guard unit in the recent "snow emergency" to help some stranded motorists. He was gone from his job three days and when he returned was fired. All he can do is find part-time jobs laboring.

Multiply these examples by a big percentage of reservists and guardsmen all over the U. S. to get a general idea of the problems they face in the way of getting promotions, new jobs or just keeping the ones they have.

In their own defense the business men say this:

"It just doesn't make sense to spend six months training a new man for a job if we're going to lose him right away."

"What's the sense of promoting a man to an important job when he'll only be able to hold it a couple of weeks and we'll just have to find another one for the job?"

"We can't assign a man who is liable to call to any of our important defense work. His leaving will cause a delay in our production."

The employers can point to the air force itself as an offender in this matter, too. The AF recently advertised for hundreds of new workers to open an air base. Next morning when a crowd of men gathered to go to work they were told by a public address system that all reservists might as well go home.

Big gripe of both employers and reservists against the services is the inability to get any positive information on a man's status. Pentagon spokesmen agree that more and more firms are being talked into handling their reserve personnel problems in a much more enlightened fashion. The Pentagon, in turn, is trying to give reservists more positive information.

Brightest side of the picture is the fact that defense spending is rapidly creating a labor shortage all over the country and it is getting easier all the time for reservists to get jobs.

Thailand Expects More Rice
BANGKOK—(P)—Thailand expects a good rice crop in 1951. The government is basing national income next year upon an estimated rice production of 800,000 tons.

But Phra Chuang Kasetsilpakarn, minister of agriculture, says there is every indication the 1951 crop would equal that of 1950 and should produce 1,200,000 tons for export.

There were earlier forecasts of a bad crop. Phra Chuang said floods in northeastern provinces had damaged only lowland rice while the yield in hill is expected to be high.

The minister predicted harvests in the central plain and northern provinces will be "very good."

Did You Ever Try This?
by Mildred Bowman

Before you send those 1950 Christmas Cards to some hospital or give them to the neighborhood children to make scrap books; go through them and see if there aren't some Grandma Moses or Winston Churchill or some from the American Artists' Cards that you'd like to keep. You can have an attractive grouping of them in the hall or perhaps on the stairway by framing them all alike. Use a piece of card board the size you want the picture when finished; then cut out the opening for the print, leaving enough margin on print to paste to back of opening. Cover the cardboard with wallpaper, velvet or chintz getting the corners around the as even and smooth as possible. Paste the print in the opening from the back and you have a picture worth hanging by a velvet ribbon or small silk cord.

Tigers Lose To Hannibal In 52-49 Tilt

The Smith-Cotton Tigers suffered their fourth defeat of the season Friday night on the local court at the hands of a towering Hannibal Pirate five by a 52-49 score. The Bengals were never in front of the sharp shooting Marion county team as Renick pumped in a long jump shot to start the fray.

The efforts of Bob Shawver went to naught since his teammates couldn't produce in the same fashion that he did. Big Bob was a rock on offense as he tossed in ten charity tosses and one field goal in the first half and added four field goals and two trips in the final two stanzas to give him 22 points. This is the highest output by any Smith-Cotton player this season. Eddie Johnson hit for nine counters and Bill Morgan, who had an off night, eight points.

Every player on the Hannibal squad used an uncanny fade-away shot which the Bengals found hard to guard. In the first half the Pirates took the majority of the rebounds but in the second go around the backboard battle was evenly matched.

Greening led the Pirate attack, chipping in 16 points. He was followed by Renick with ten. Morgan fouled out late in the final quarter for the second time this season.

The Tigers took 67 shots at the bucket and connected only 12 times for a 18 percent. Hannibal tossed the ball goalward 59 times and hit 19 times for an average of 32 percent.

The game was officiated by Whiteman and Rittenhouse of Warrensburg.

The score at the end of the first frame read 12-10 in favor of the Pirates. The count was tied three times but the Bengals were never able to cash in on opportunities and go into the lead. Shawver hit five free throws to lead the local cause in the initial period while Greening hit the same number of points for the Bucs.

In the second quarter the Smith-Cotton crew hit for only one field goal, that being by Shawver. He also hit five more free tosses to give him 7 points in the period. Turpin countered with six for Hannibal.

Coach Ball's boys narrowed the gap by one point in the third period by 41-35. Claude Murphy finally found the range and tossed in five points. Greening again led Ira Winn's team with five points also.

Smith Cotton pulled to within four points of the Pirates with four minutes remaining by a 44-40 score. Hannibal then began using stalling tactics and found enormous holes in the Tiger defense to increase their margin to eight points. At that point there was little doubt about the outcome of the tilt but the Bengals were dead game all the way and came back to make the final score read 52-49. Eddie Johnson hit a long set shot with ten seconds remaining to wind up the scoring. Scoring was evenly divided in this period among several players on both squads.

Moose Captures Fifth Position At Green Ridge

The Sedalia Moose Club took the consolation honors (fifth place) in the Green Ridge Invitational tournament Saturday night with only five men suiting up for the game against the Otterville Independents by a 44-30 score.

The Independents attempted to run the Moose to death by substituting a fresh five into the game every three minutes, but failed. Player-coach Bud Michalis had four fouls midway the second quarter and was forced to coast the remainder of the contest in order for the Moose to have five men on the court.

Billy Hill sank 14 points to lead the Moose. He was followed by Dean Edwards with 12 and Red Alderman with 11. LaVern Masters and Bill Ray hit 12 and ten points respectively to lead the Otterville quintet.

Score by quarters:

Top Athletes Given Awards From TD Club

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Touchdown club of Washington tonight gave its 1950 awards to some of the country's top professional and college athletes at a gala dinner.

Vice President Alben Barkley, cabinet members, supreme court justices and other government notables along with top sports authorities were among the guests invited to the $15-a-plate black tie affair at a leading hotel.

Prominent men took part in presenting the awards which went to college football players, a college coach, a pro player and a pro coach. For baseball, it was little Phil Rizzuto of the New York Yankees, all alone as the baseball player of the year.

Parilli Top Back

To Vito (Babe) Parilli, Kentucky quarterback, went the Walter Camp Memorial trophy as the outstanding back of the year. In receiving the award, Parilli joined such illustrious former winners as Tom Harmon of Michigan and Bill Dudley of the University of Virginia.

The Knute Rockne Memorial trophy for being an outstanding lineman went to Lewis (Bud) McFadin of Texas. In 1949, the Rockne Memorial went to Leon Hart of Notre Dame.

Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma University walked off with the club's memorial award for the outstanding coaching job.

Honor to Wilkinson

Wilkinson coached the team rated No. 1 in the Associated Press poll. Frank Leahy, head coach of Notre Dame, took the honor last year.

Bob Ward, University of Maryland lineman, took the Robert Smith Memorial trophy, given to the leading player in this area.

The Touchdown club presented an award as pro player of the year to Bob Waterfield, the classy quarterback of the Los Angeles Rams.

Steve Owen, coach of the New York Giants, received an award as coach of the year in the pro divisions.

Steve Wadiak, of South Carolina University, was awarded the Southern Conference trophy.

Zastrow Receives Mention

For an outstanding 1950 performance, the Touchdown group presented an award to Bob Zastrow for his part in the Naval Academy's 14 to 2 upset of Army.

Little Eddie Le Baron, now a Second Lieutenant with the Quantico Marines, was rewarded as the outstanding service player.

Mules Open Loop Play With 66-52 Victory

WARRENSBURG, Mo., Jan. 6.—(P)—The Central Missouri State Mules defeated the Northeast Missouri State Teachers from Kirksville, 66-52, here tonight in the opening MIAA basketball game for both schools.

The Mules dominated play all the way, holding a 29-18 lead at halftime.

Jim Curtis and Bill Perry each got 14 points for the visitors to lead the individual scoring. Mule forward Art Laney and Lyle Highfill each got 13 points.

Indian Rookie Gets Call for Induction

COVINGTON, Va., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Jim Bob Lemon, Cleveland Indians outfielder, today was ordered by his draft board to report for induction into the army on January 18.

Lemon, 22-years-old, started the 1950 baseball season with Oklahoma City of the Texas League. Cleveland obtained the home run hitting specialist the latter part of the season.

The University of Southern California is located at Los Angeles.

Ransom Moves To The Front In L. A. Open

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Henry Ransom, a veteran of the professional ranks, moved into a commanding lead at the midway mark of the $15,000 Los Angeles Open today as pace setting, favoring Sam Snead fell back in quest of his second straight triumph here.

Ransom, who plays out of St. Andrews, Ill., shot a five under par 66 after a first round 70 yesterday to post a total score of 136 at the end of 36 holes of the 72 hole tournament.

Snead, whose 67 led the field yesterday, slumped back to 75 blows and a score of 142, six valuable strokes behind Ransom.

Sandwiched in between were four other contenders for the top money, who will move into the third round tomorrow and the final 18 holes Monday.

Play is at Riviera Country Club, familiar scene for the past seven years of the Los Angeles Open. Par for the 7,020-yard test is 35—71.

Joe Kirkwood, Jr., the tall, handsome "Joe Palooka" of the movies and a pro golfering son of a famous golfing father of yesterday, finished the 36 holes with 60-71—140, four shots off the pace in second place.

Tied at 141 were Felice Torza, St. Charles, Ill., with a 69 today; Ed Gurgol, Royal Oak, Mich., with a 71, and Doug Ford of Briarcliff, N. Y., who had a 72.

Bracketed at 143 were Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, and Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, with 70's; amateur Bud Holscher of Santa Monica, Calif., playing his home course, with a 71, and Jimmy Clark, pro from Laguna Beach, Calif., with a 69.

Ransom displayed a bagful of hot irons, including his putter, and Snead displayed an erratic game.

Snead apparently was hampered by an injured left hand. He hurt it originally in Miami two weeks ago, and complained that it troubled him yesterday. He refused to say how badly it was hurt, what the doctor's diagnosis was or whether any bone is actually broken.

"It ain't right," was all Sam admitted.

Tipton Fund Gets Started This Afternoon

A cage double-header, matching the Missouri Pacific Dynamos and the Green Ridge Rams in one game, and CBC and the Moose club in the second, will inaugurate the Bob Tipton Memorial fund tomorrow afternoon at two in the Sacred Heart gym.

The four participating teams are in top-notch shape for the event; all have several games under their belt, and all have their share of wins for the season.

George Thompson and "Rocky" Carver will call the first game, and Ralph Dow and Morrow Mason the second.

The money collected will be placed in a fund, loans from which will aid worthy students to further their education.

Howerton First In Card Fold

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Outfielder Bill Howerton signed his 1951 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals today. He was the first Cardinal to enter the fold.

Howerton, in town to have doctors look at a sore shoulder, came to terms with Redbird president Fred Saigh in a few minutes.

The terms were not announced. Howerton hit .281 in 110 games last year. He planned to return to his Scranton, Pa., home tonight or tomorrow.

Warning Given 'Trigger-Happy'

ST. CHARLES, Mo., Jan. 6.—(P)—Trigger-happy hunters searching for the "black panther" rumored to be on the loose in St. Charles county are shooting up the countryside.

And Sheriff Lester Plackmeyer—one of a growing number who believe the animal is strictly imaginary—has his dander up. The sheriff says he isn't worried about the "panther" but that the hunters are a real menace.

Carloads of hunters have been coming into the county since reports of persons seeing the animal were publicized. Farmers say they've been shooting at dogs and other domestic animals.

The sheriff warned: "If some of these guys from St. Louis county don't stop coming over here with guns, they're going to wind up in jail!"

Sugar Ray To Receive Neil Memorial Plaque

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson will receive the Edward J. Neil Memorial plaque Tuesday night at the Silver anniversary dinner of the New York Boxing Writers' Association at the Waldorf Astoria.

Joe Louis, the former heavy weight champion now making a comeback, will make the presentation to Robinson as "the man who did most for the uplift and advancement of boxing in 1950."

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

FIVE STAR entertainment is on schedule for Wednesday night at Smith-Cotton high school when the school faculty will endeavor to put the student body "Five Stars" basketball team on the shelf. In fact the faculty intends to trounce the "youngsters" but the rumors from the "youngsters" are strictly a different thought.

The half-time schedule of entertainment calls for some vaudeville to be given by members of the faculty. Many are wondering if it will contain the "symphony" orchestra which appeared in another faculty-student basketball night. I was informed if Miss Maude Sanders plays her "gettar" and Wilfred "Doc" Bell plays his trumpet and E. C. "Pop" Schlichting on their drums, who are the main three characters of the orchestra, it will be well worth the thirty-five cents admission to the game.

Of course it is all in fun and the faculty members enjoy putting on their part as much as those who go to see it—even to the twirlers of last year when Mrs. Alma Hausam and Mrs. Thelma Cook performed and were as one student said, "the riot of the show."

The money which is derived from this evening of entertainment goes to the Student Council fund which is used for the good of some school projects,—such as the curtain fund.

Incidentally our esteemed Sports Helper, Gene "The Pump-er" William, is making necessary arrangements to get some time off to participate in the game. Williams declared he would see his "Five Stars" come through with a 1951 victory over the Faculty. Gene, who is the Student Council president, is urging everyone to be present for this contest.

REMEMBER, today is the day Robert "Bob" Tipton Memorial Fund gets its start with basketball games being played this afternoon at the Sacred Heart gym. Two games are on the schedule, starting at 2 o'clock between the Green Ridge independent team and the Missouri Pacific Dynamos, while the feature game is between the Sedalia Moose Club and the Central Business College.

It is an educational fund which is being started to assist worthy boys and girls who desire to further their education.

WITH baseball training camps starting for the major and minor leagues, if the local clubs expect to get anything done at Liberty Park in fixing up the diamond, those interested should start now. The Sedalia Park Board should give a listening ear to any discussions at the present time and something might be accomplished if the problem is discussed now instead of waiting until the last minute.

The baseball diamond should be revamped in some manner so that it will have the proper drainage, and baseball can be played after a shower. As it is now, it turns into a lake quickly if a light rain falls, all because the outfield and infield are not properly graded.

It is something for the ball clubs to think about and start discussing now instead of waiting until the season gets underway and they experience a rainy Sunday or day just before a night game.

S-C Faculty And Five Stars In Cage Battle Wednesday

The Smith-Cotton high school football and basketball at Smith-Cotton. It was the rugged rebounding of the former Maryville star that spelled defeat for the Stars last year. Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow will play his first contest for the Faculty in the three game series in the coming tilt. Dow, who attended Warrensburg College, was a famous eager in his college days. A California newspaper once said, (many years ago) that he compared with the Stanford great Hank Lucietti on the court.

Jagar to See Action
Gearhart Jagar will see a lot of action against the Stars Wednesday. He is also a graduate of Warrensburg and his cage experience was limited to intramural competition. Ralph Bowers of Cape Girardeau and Emmerson Matthews of Maryville, both of the Industrial Arts Department, will play with the Faculty. Each played important roles in the Faculty win last year.

The last but not least to dress for the game will be Joe Benson, principal who has been at S-C for 15 years. Benson attended school at Maryville. Probably, at last year, he will see limited action. His main duty will be acting as a substitute for his tired and exhausted colleagues.

Faculty Gets Boost
The Faculty squad will be bolstered this year since they obtained W. L. Burlingame, mathematics teacher, who has coached basketball teams, and Bob "Flash" Karnes, Kansas University track "whiz" for the past two seasons. Other members of the teaching staff will be Coach Jim Ball, a graduate of Southwest Missouri State Teachers College of Springfield. Ball was a big cog in the Faculty attack last year.

From Maryville comes Howard Glavin, assistant coach in both

Mrs. Zaharias Grabs 4-Stroke Golf Lead

PONTE VEDRA BEACH, Fla., Jan. 6.—(P)—Babe Zaharias practically nailed down another top golf prize today when she pulled away from the field in the second round of the $3,000 Ponte Vedra Club Open.

The Babe shot a steady 38-36-74 for a 36-hole total of 149.

Her one-over-par round put her four strokes ahead of 17-year-old Marlene Bauer. They tied with 75 in yesterday's opening 18 holes but the younger of the two Bauer sisters from Midland, Texas, had putting trouble today and used 78 strokes over the par 37-36—73 Oceanwide course.

Patty Berg of Minneapolis went around the 6,715-yard layout in 38-38—76 and moved within a stroke of Marlene at 154.

The Babe, new golf course owner from Tampa, putted for birdies on 13 holes on her second round but never got a one. She hit her iron's true to the pin all day.

Louise Suggs of Carrollton, Ga., who had been hampered by blistered hands, said they were some better today and her round of 77 indicated an improvement. She stood fourth at 156 and Betty Jameson of San Antonio was next with 157.

Marlyn Smith, Wichita, Kas. was 7th with 81-79—160.

Rockhurst Blasts C. of E.
KANSAS CITY, Jan. 6.—(P)—The Rockhurst College Hawks, paced by Clarence Darrah's 18 points, defeated College of Emporia 62-56 in a non-conference basketball game tonight.

Jim William counted 18 points for College of Emporia.

Rockhurst doubled the score by the middle of the first half and had a big lead early in the second half, but each time C. of E. rallied to make a contest of it.

Dynamos to Play Little Rock Five
This coming Saturday night the Missouri Pacific Dynamos will play another Missouri Pacific quintet from Little Rock, Ark., in the first of a series of games between Missouri Pacific teams to determine the champs of the MoPac system.

Firecracker Kills Snake
GOA, Portuguese India.—(P)—A firecracker tossed by a child in the house of a government official in a village near here brought a deadly cobra out of hiding.

The cobra darted toward the cracker and picked it up in its mouth. A second later it exploded, killing the snake.

Senior Bowl Taken 19-18 By The South

Bucky Curtis Paces Rebels By Grabbing 2 Scoring Passes

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 6.—(P)—Bucky Curtis, Vanderbilt's rangy end, staged a sensational pass receiving performance to lead Steve Owen's South forces to a 19-18 win over the favored North in the second annual Senior Bowl football game today.

The six feet, three inch Vandy wingman nabbed two touchdown tosses from Tulane's Joe Ernst and Alabama's Ed Salem, and set up the third score with another long pass.

The North staged an aerial ex-brask of its own featuring Nebraska's Fran Nagle and UCLA's end Bob Wilkinson and wound up on the south's one yard line as the game ended.

The north team blew a beautiful scoring opportunity in the third quarter that would have changed the result. SMU's Kyle Rote slipped and fell on fourth down after his team had driven 72 yards to the south one-yard line.

Crowd A Disappointment

A disappointing crowd of 13,232 turned out for the contest, played in mild weather under cloudy skies. Players share in the gate receipts, but the amount of the distribution wasn't immediately announced.

The South piled all its scoring in a furious second quarter, when it came from behind, and surged in front to stay. The North, which had relied on a bruising ground game in the first half, took to the air in the final quarter in a desperate effort to win.

Curtis' first touchdown catch was a 10-yard flit pass from Ernst. His second touchdown came on a 16 yard toss from Salem, after a 54-yard heave from the Alabama All America passing act put the ball in position for the score.

TD Comes on Break

Curtis got a valuable assist from Missouri's Ed Stephens on the second touchdown catch. Stephens' arm deflected the ball to the Vandy star, who was sitting on the turf when the ball landed in his lap.

Actually, a conversion by Kentucky's All-America Bob Gain provided the victory margin. It came after the South's third touchdown, and was the only extra point of the game.

Georgia's Billy Mixon scored the South's third touchdown at the start of the second quarter on a four yard sweep around end.

Oklahoma's powerhouse, Leon Heath, and Killer Kyle Rote of SMU counted two of the North's scores to wind up long ground drives. A 15-yard toss from Nagle to the rangy Wilkinson brought Bo McMillin's North forces their third score.

Rote missed all three tries at conversions.

Duck Inventory Starts Jan. 10

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 6.—(Special)—State and federal wildlife agencies over all of North America and part of South America will cooperate Jan. 10, 11 and 12 in the 17th annual winter inventory of migratory waterfowl.

In addition to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which heads the project, participating federal agencies will include the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and National Guard. Primary purpose of the extensive survey is to collect data on trends in waterfowl populations, which, in addition to data recorded from spring and summer field investigations at breeding sites, provide information essential in the formulation of annual hunting regulations.

In Missouri, conservation agents and other field personnel of the Conservation Commission will report their estimates of waterfowl population as observed in their respective counties or districts. Through the aid of the Army and Navy, the federal agencies will employ aircraft to count waterfowl in areas of heavy concentration.

"If any man can come back after such injuries, Skip Alexander can," commented Dugan Aycock, veteran pro under whom Alexander started work as a pro.

Alexander was released last week from a hospital at Evansville, Ind., where he had been a patient since the Sept. 24 crash that killed three persons. He suffered burns of the hands, face and legs and three fractures of the left ankle.

Cyclones Upset Oklahoma

AMES, Ia., Jan. 6.—(P)—Iowa State upset Oklahoma 48-44 tonight in a Big Seven Conference basketball game as the Cyclones threw up a tight defense against the Sooners.

Jim Stange controlled the defensive rebounds and also led Iowa State scoring with 12 points.

Lovellette Does It Again

LAWRENCE, Kas., Jan. 6.—(P)—The Kansas Jayhawks, rolling on big Clyde Lovellette's 26 points, defeated the Nebraska Cornhuskers, 68-41, in an opening game on the Big Seven Conference championship season tonight.

Lawrence, Kas., Jan. 6.—(P)—The Kansas Jayhawks, rolling on big Clyde Lovellette's 26 points, defeated the Nebraska Cornhuskers, 68-41, in an opening game on the Big Seven Conference championship season tonight.

Saigh denied that he voted against Chandler because the commissioner refused to allow the Cardinals to play a Sunday game at night.

BULLETIN
COLUMBIA, MO., Jan. 6.—(P)—The Kansas State Wildcats turned on the heat early in the second half to coast to a 60-43 victory over the Missouri Tigers in a Big Seven conference basketball game tonight. It was the opening league game for both teams.
Bud Heineman led Missouri with 15 points.
The score at the half was 29 all.

Smithton Takes 3-Game Series From Gremlins

The Smithton high school Tigers made a clean sweep of the Sacred Heart high school athletic events Friday night at the Sacred Heart gym by winning the girls volleyball game by a score of 33-19. The Smithton B team winning by a score of 17 to 12 and the high school taking the measure over the Gremlins by a 49-33 score.

The Gremun game was a good contest throughout. Only in the first minute of play did the Sedalia team lead and that on a free throw by Hodges and a fielder by Fall. The Smithton team began to score and remained in the lead all during the game. The score at half time was 25-17 in favor of the Tigers team, but the Gremlins came back in the second half and cut the lead to four points, only to have the visitors null away again. At the end of the third quarter the Gremlins were still trailing by eight points. The loss of Jim Labus and Kenny Jett on fouls hurt Sacred Heart's chances.

The Gremlins will participate in a tournament at Knob Noster next Thursday night.

Your Host Wins Rich Handicap

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Your Host, an even money favorite, broke the track record for a mile and one eighth today by outrunning nine rivals in Santa Anita's $50,000 Santa Catalina handicap.

Clearly the class horse in the field of California breeds, the William Goetz colt carried high weight of 130 pounds and reeled off the distance in 1:43 1/5. The clocking trimmed two fifths of a second off the mark set by Double Jay in July, 1949.

Jockey Eric Guerin, riding in place of the injured Johnny Gilbert, held Your Host under restraint for the first five eighths, brought him to the front at the top of the stretch, and beat out Moonrush by half a length.

Your Host returned $4.00, $3.20 and $2.20 across the board. Moonrush, with Eddie Arcaro, paid $5.70 and $2.80, while Vino Fino, the show horse, returned $2.20.

Drury Takes Measure Of Culver-Stockton

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 6.—(P)—Drury College made its MCAU debut a winning one by defeating Culver-Stockton, 58-51, tonight.

John Kiefer canned a jump shot after 25 seconds had elapsed and the visiting Wildcats could never catch up. Drury led 30-26 at halftime and moved the margin to as much as 10 points early in the second half.

Keifer and Bob Brower led the Panthers with 14 points each. Bob Logan, Jack Walz and Bill Turner had 12 points apiece for Culver.

Football In Blizzard Picked Year's Oddest Sport Event

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Gather around the hot stove, friends, and we'll tell you about the whackiest events in sports during the past year.

There were plenty of them, too. But the most outstanding in the minds of sports writers and sports-casters were the big blizzard, the great fox hunt in Yankee stadium, and the longest mile run in history.

The experts who took part in the Associated Press' year-end poll found many other oddities to lighten up a grim year.

They didn't chuckle at Ohio State, however, over the great Blizzard. Thirteen inches of snow had piled up on the huge Ohio stadium before the climatic game with Michigan. A snow storm lashed a 28-mile an hour wind performed in biting, ten-degree cold.

And oddly enough, and maybe that's not the proper word, 50,503 fanatics tried to watch the ghost-like maneuver.

Win Without First Down
Not a single first down was made by Michigan, which won, 9-3, to capture the Big Ten title and a trip to the Rose Bowl.

The weather was almost as bad in other sections of the country. Punks were booed straight up in the air, in some parts gales swept the kicks back, and players, unable to distinguish their teammates, tackled their own runners.

The most elusive runner since the days of Red Grange, however, showed up in the Yankee Stadium. It was Reynard, the Fox, a gaunt little critter about three feet long and weighing about 15 pounds.

Reynard first was spotted by watchmen the night before the Army-Michigan football game after a truckload of tarpaulins had been brought in.

Some wags said the fox had been there all through the baseball season and had hopped out of the strange ships cooked up by Casey Stengel.

Casey Denies All
Casey, who won two straight world championships, hastily denied any collaboration with Reynard, saying he got his inspiration from the same little boy who helped Irvin Berlin write his song hits.

They finally got Reynard one dark night in December. There was no baying of hounds, no scarlet-clad hunters. Reynard was blasted by a shotgun in the dimly-lit catacombs under the stands.

He was at the end of his rope when it happened, anyway, lean and starved looking.

Reynard has been stuffed and mounted in the stadium press room, a permanent reminder to Yankee base stealers to make that bag.

The world's record for the mile run is 4:01.4. The slowest? The 314 days, 12 hours and 23 minutes it took for Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin to win the Wanamaker mile.

Judges Disagree
Gehrmann was declared the winner on Jan. 28 when he finished the mile in Madison Square Garden in 4:09.3, a breath ahead of Fred Wilt. Four judges were evenly divided on the outcome and chief judge Asa Bushnell declared for Gehrmann. After that followed a series of squabbles that would have mystified a Philadelphia lawyer with Wilt declared the winner and then Gehrmann. The dispute raged for months.

Finally on Dec. 9, the AAU, at its annual convention, decided once and for all that Gehrmann was the victor.

Another headline oddity was Aaron Robinson's failure to tag Bob Lemon at the plate. The Detroit catcher, thinking he had a force play, stepped on the plate. Lemon scored and the Cleveland Indians won 2-1, a loss that cut deeply into Detroit's pennant chances.

Par for Dodgers
That "boner" will be long remembered by the fans who only chuckled when the Dodgers got involved in another series of two-men-on-one-base incidents. That's par at Brooklyn.

And speaking of par, Johnny Bulla, the pro golfer, was lining up a putt in the National Open when a stray dog sprinted over and ran off with his ball. A Scotch terrier, no doubt.

Jim Konstanty, a great relief pitcher for the Phils, who hadn't started a game all year, opened the World Series for the Phillies and almost got away with it. In his strange starting role he held the Yankees to four hits in eight innings but lost, 1-0.

A story that has become a legend in football was passed on from several parts of the country. It told of the giant tackle who looked down on an opposing lineman who was spitting out a tooth. "You had 31 when you started," said the tackle to his opposite, "do you want to try for 29?"

Slow-Motion Basketball
Pro basketball had its eye-lifter in the slow-motion game between Fort Wayne and the Minneapolis Lakers. The Pistons own, 19-13, a record low score for the loop.

The Pistons held the ball often as long as three minutes without trying for a shot. The booing of the 7,021 Minneapolis spectators failed to faze the Pistons. But league President Maurice Pophoff did when he said "cut it out here."

Celebration At Big Old Field In Texas

Spindletop Gusher
Is Now Fifty Years Old

By Max B. Skelton

BEAUMONT, Tex., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Spindletop, the fabulous field that turned oil into a big business, will be 50 years old Wednesday.

Hundreds of oilmen, from executives to roustabouts, will be here to help celebrate the golden anniversary of the "gusher" that took oil production out of the knee pants age.

The Lucas discovery well blew in at mid-morning on January 10, 1901. For nine days, 100,000 barrels of oil a day roared 200 feet into the air before the well was brought under control.

It was the world's first 100,000 barrels a day well. Before then, oilmen had worked only with wells that turned out considerably less than 100 barrels a day.

Bigger and richer fields have been discovered since 1901. But Spindletop was the first proof that oil could be found in large quantities. It gave a shot in the arm to the machine age that was beginning to develop without knowing where it would get its fuel.

Such firms as Gulf Oil corporation and the Texas Company got their start at Spindletop. The origin of many other companies of today can be traced indirectly to Spindletop.

Reckless development and lack of technical knowledge of control of gusher wells probably prevented Spindletop from becoming one of history's greatest productive fields.

Oil that flooded acres around the original well finally caught fire. Millions of barrels of oil also were wasted from other gushers that followed.

The oil field three miles south of Beaumont still is producing but its output is pitiful, compared to 1902 when she produced 17,000,000 barrels of oil.

Today the field has 170 wells with an official total production allowable of 2,248 barrels a day. The daily average output per well is only 13.22 barrels, although the range is from one to 87 barrels.

Records of the Texas railroad commission show that from January 10, 1901, through December 31, 1950, Spindletop produced 131,224,099 barrels of crude.

Enormous Production
But the vision and determination of two men at Spindletop paved the way for such huge production figures.

One, Capt. Anthony F. Lucas, an immigrant Austrian mining engineer, was attracted to the Gulf Coast by reports of salt and sulphur deposits.

The other, Patillo Higgins, read geology books while working in lumber camps around Beaumont and refused to give up a hunch that Spindletop, a low hill south of town, had oil.

Higgins found seeps of oil but a shallow drill test failed.

In 1899 he got Lucas interested in the flat-topped hill.

Lucas decided to make a test. After one try was stopped by quicksand, Lucas shopped around for financial backing and made a deal with J. M. Guffey and J. H. Galey, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

J. G. and A. W. Hamill, brothers who gained drilling experience when the first Texas oil was discovered at Corsicana in 1895, were hired to handle Lucas' second test. It was agreed to try to go to 1,200 feet.

A gas and mud spray was struck at 445 feet. Traces of oil appeared in the slush pits when the drilling bit reached 880 feet.

At 1,020 feet, another gas pocket was struck. Mud and water shot into the air. The pressure was so great the drill was pulled from the hole, knocking away the crown of the derrick.

The well settled down and the drilling crew returned to repair the damage.

Suddenly, the well broke loose again, gushing oil all over the hill.

Spindletop—and an oil industry—was born.

Beaumont became a boom town overnight. Its population jumped from 10,000 to 50,000. Special trains brought fortune seekers from the east and north.

Lucas sold his interests a few months later. He died in Washington, D. C., in 1921.

In November 1901, Guffey merged his Guffey Petroleum company with the holdings of Andrew Mellon and others to form the Gulf Oil corporation.

Among those rushing to Beaumont when Lucas' gusher blew in was J. S. Cullinan of Corsicana, who built Texas' first oil refinery and pipe line.

In 1902, Cullinan, with associates from New York, Chicago, Dallas and Beaumont, formed the Texas Company.

Humble Oil & Refining company, the nation's largest producer of crude oil, is among the firms who origin can be traced directly to Spindletop.

Oldtimers from the Spindletop boom days, including Higgins and the Hamill brothers, are to be honor guests at anniversary ceremonies at the monument Wednesday afternoon.

Found Fighting In Korea Is Much Harder Than In Europe

An interesting story was printed in the Cape Girardeau Southeast Missouriian on December 12, of the war in Korea told to a reporter of the paper by S/Sgt. Walter V. Porter, while he was visiting his wife and children.

Larry Steve, 6, and Judy Ann, 4, who are residing in a trailer adjacent to the residence of his wife's parents in Cape Girardeau. S/Sgt. Porter was home on an emergency furlough from Korea, called by the illness of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Zinn, of this city, who died just before he arrived home. Sgt. Porter was reared by Mrs. Zinn.

An airman, who fought in Europe in World War II, with the 8th armored division, Sgt. Porter left Korea just three days before the Chinese Reds invaded the country, said that the country there is a lot rougher and it's a lot harder to fight there than in Europe.

He was with the 8th armored division five year and eight months and participated in the march through the Ardennes, of the Eighth army there.

Red Cross Corner

REACTIVATION OF VOLUNTEER SPECIAL SERVICES: In order to carry out our commitments with civil defense, it is now necessary to reactivate all Red Cross corps and services, and to recruit new members for training. This is not a project of the future. We must do it now. The services are as follows: Canteen, Gray Ladies, Motor Service, Nurse's Aide, Production, Staff Aide, and Social Welfare Aide (Home Service).

Under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, the Gray Ladies were reactivated some time ago, and are now on a heavy schedule at Bothwell hospital. If you are a former member of one of the above, plan your winter and spring with the resumption of your Red Cross activities in mind. Make those activities, the most important of all. If you have never been a Red Cross volunteer become one now. Mrs. D. Kelly Scruton, production chairman, is in charge of registration.

Call the Red Cross office, telephone 618—now and register. There is very little time in which to prepare for what might happen tomorrow. The Red Cross is counting on the women of this country to man the volunteer jobs and to man them now.

Mrs. Ferguson is urging all her Gray Ladies to adhere more closely than ever to their Bothwell hospital schedule. An unprecedented number of hospital cases makes the work of this service more imperative than ever.

Congratulations to the 17 volunteers who went to Alcoa Farms Wednesday. In the spring we expect to have the Mobile Blood Donor Unit here in Sedalia for regular periods. Keep this in mind, more specific information later.

Michael Wolff, chairman safety service announces the first First Aid classes under civil defense will start Monday for members of the Sedalia police department. These classes will be held daily until the course is completed, with Cecil Smith, a qualified First Aid instructor, who is a member of the police force, as instructor. Police Chief Neighbors states that the entire police force is glad to take advantage of this training.

From here on out, all Red Cross volunteers are asked to pay special attention to this column which appears regularly every Sunday. It is thus that you will be kept abreast of notices, meetings and appointments. The Red Cross Corner is the official organ of the Pettis County chapter. Read it every week. It is for you.

"Operation Reindeer"
When Eskimo tribes faced starvation as their food sources of walrus and caribou vanished in the late 19th century, a small herd of reindeer was imported from Siberia. Today, reindeer in Alaska number many hundreds of thousands furnishing meat even for export.

A civil war battle was fought near Santa Fe, N. Mex., although that state was then only a territory of the U. S. A.
